DESIGNED FOR BOYS

Boarding Update: Term One: #2

Dear Parents,

The week started with Boarder's Chapel Service on Sunday evening with a BBQ afterwards for the boys and their families. Most of our parents came along and enjoyed meeting all the new boy's parents and others. The food was good, sausages, chicken wings and meat patties which were cooked by Mr. Zach and Mr. Styles, as well as salads and potatoes.

Today we had our first linen change of the year, which was over in record time with the old boys helping the new boys make their beds. Some of the new boys are experts already, especially Jonty.

The Year 8's went on their first "town leave" of the year today. We bought a few lollies to have tonight when Mr. Exeter takes us to "late night" up in the computer room.. It was good to have the privilege to leave the school grounds and go into the village on our own.

This week has been very hot so far so we have been having extra swims after Prep. Maybe not tonight because the rain has started.

The Boarder of the Week this week is Thor Crombie who did a great job last week as Senior on Duty for the first time. He will get an iceblock as a prize. Another boarder had a birthday today. Campbell Roadley turned 13 and shared his cake with the boarders at tea time tonight.

This weekend Edwin Laver, Ben Petersen , Charlie Louisson and Richard Kerr are all staying in, though they are all weekly boarders. They are to take their PADI Dive Certificate test in Napier so we wish them luck. All of these boys have been studying really hard over the past two weeks .

P.S. We did go for a swim, even though it was raining.
